Finding and Funding a Cure for FOXG1 Syndrome

AIDYN MAE Story

Aidyn Mae Gottlieb was born with an extremely rare, debilitating neurological disorder called FOXG1 Syndrome. Most patients, including Aidyn, are unable to walk, talk, or eat unassisted and suffer from a wide range of life altering symptoms including: visual impairment, uncontrolled movements, sleep disorders, seizures, extreme unprovoked irritability, acid reflux, and more.

The FOXG1 gene plays a critical role in brain development because it regulates several other genes in the brain. When a person does not have the right amount of the protein created by this gene, the whole body is impacted and prevents normal development. The Aidyn Mae Hope Fund is sponsoring research into a promising Gene Replacement Therapy which has already demonstrated results with mutated mice, and for which additional funding is necessary to advance these efforts into FDA-approved human clinical trials.

The Aidyn Mae Hope Fund was created to fund research and hope for families in the FOXG1 community.

God has good plans that He is working out through Aidyn and through our family. Plans to prosper us, and not to harm us. We have been given hope, and a future, and are inviting you into this journey of hope alongside our family. Please consider partnering with us in prayer and in action, and please walk with us boldly into a future where Aidyn and children like her can walk, talk, and share in this gift of life.

The Aidyn Mae Hope Fund is a proud partner and fundraising arm of Believe in a Cure, a non-profit organization dedicated to finding a cure for FOXG1 Syndrome. 100% of funds raised through AMHF go directly to BIAC.
